Welcome to Delaware County's Brandywine Country!

As the trees begin to turn a beautiful orange and gold and we await the first frost of the season, Brandywine Country offers the perfect setting for harvest celebrations and more. There are Halloween ghost tours and pumpkin carvings, art exhibits and theater productions, holiday house tours and so many other activities to enjoy throughout the season.

With autumn, comes the start of school and inside these pages you will learn about the wonderful educational opportunities that are available in this region. You will read about more than twenty colleges, universities and technical schools many of which are tops in the nation.

When the leaves begin to fall and the brilliant foliage fades, winter days will be upon us and holiday shopping will begin. Shopping in our quaint specialty shops or our bustling downtown districts will leave you filled with the spirit of the holiday season. You can find gifts for everyone on your list by following the shopping trip through Brandywine Country we have outlined for you in this issue.

Our historic region is filled with seasonal and holiday activities you won't want to miss. Take a few moments and read all about them in the pages of our Visitor's Guide and then come experience Delaware County's Brandywine Country this fall and winter.

Enjoy!

making a list, Checking it twice

Brandywine boasts bounty of selections for holiday gift givers

Picture in your mind an old-fashioned snow globe. A scaled-down model of yesteryear captured in a little plastic shell, gently dusted with falling snow. The street lights are glowing, the store windows brilliant and festive, bows and ribbons are on packages and bags and everyone taking time away from a stressful routine to focus on friends and family. 📺

Wouldn't it be great to have your holidays look a little more like that this year? Where finding creative, hand-crafted gifts that reached beyond the everyday was a joy and not a chore? Gifts that bring heartfelt, spontaneous smiles, the second that they're opened? If that's the kind of winter experience you crave this year, the Brandywine Valley has several shopping areas that fit the bill and we've put a few of them together here in a shopping itinerary that circles you around our hills and valleys and lets you stop along the way for your own little snow globe experiences. 📺 Welcome to the glittering and luxurious tradition of holiday shopping — Brandywine-style.

BANANA REPUBLIC

ANN TAYLOR

 GLEN EAGLE SQUARE

*City sidewalks, busy sidewalks

We're going to start our shopping expedition in Media — otherwise known as Everybody's Home Town and the seat of Delaware County. The merchants on State Street always put out their best decorations for the season giving the picturesque illusion of a real-life Currier & Ives print. (The soothing sound of the local trolley rolling down the street periodically certainly helps to complete the picture.) Window shopping is encouraged here, although we're guessing you won't be able to stop at the windows.

Plenty of gifts for the man on your list can be found at B.Gross Menswear, one of the true Media landmarks that line the street. Custom tailoring and personalized service still are the norm here, even after more than 80 years. Across the street and down a few doors is Golden Impulse Jewelers where they have perennial holiday favorites — exquisite, sparkling gifts in tiny, wrapped packages. Need we say more?

Also on State Street is The Village Art Shop. Have an otherwise hard-to-buy-for teenager on your list? Or maybe an imaginative and artistic mom who loves to scrapbook or paint? Purchase some quality papers, pencils or pens here for the gift of creative expression. And, while you're thinking color and design, pop in The Media Florist for a stunning floral centerpiece that will take any holiday gathering from routine to memorable.

Once you've found your treasures along State Street, tuck them safely in your shopping bag and follow Baltimore Pike to Route 1 south toward Chadds Ford.

*Children laughing
People passing

About eight miles down the road is the second destination on our journey — The Shoppes at Brinton Lake. More than 25 shops and restaurants are here, providing convenient access to a variety of gift-giving options. Names such as Williams Sonoma, Pottery Barn, Galan Gifts and Fine Furnishings and Pier 1 Imports have festive and practical gifts for the home. If the person you're shopping for is a devoted J.Crew or Eddie Bauer fan, they're here, too, as well as clothiers Ann Taylor Loft, Christopher & Banks, Talbot's, Victoria's Secret and Chico's. It's also possible, while you are here, to get a manicure at the Thomas Lavella Salon, create a homemade pottery gift at Color Me Mine or get a quick treat of ice cream at MaggieMoos. If lunch or dinner is on your mind, Ruby's Diner, The America Bar & Grill and P.F. Chang's Chinese Bistro each have exquisite fare in fun settings — just what you need to feel refreshed to continue shopping.

After Brinton Lake, return to Route 1, heading south. Just down the road is the intersection of Routes 1 and 202. If you take a small detour and turn left onto Route 202 south, plenty of specialty shops await the discriminating gift giver. The first stop, only a mile down the road, could be the brand new Keystone Plaza, home of several shops and Pescatore's Restaurant. Pescatore's — new since July — offers entrees such as pizza, steak, seafood and Italian specialties in a family-friendly atmosphere reminiscent of the old country. The charming atmosphere, separate bar and private banquet room are sure to make this Brandywine newcomer a favorite destination for years to come.

Just next door to the Keystone Plaza is the entrance to Olde Ridge Village, a collection of charming boutiques nestled in a cozy ring of stone cottages. Shopping here is stress-free and fun and always promises lots of checkmarks on your shopping list — plus a little treat for yourself.

Crafters will enjoy browsing The Stencil Shoppe where you can find multitudes of handmade stencils and lots of ideas on how to use them. From tiny squares to be used on notecards to garden murals that fill entire walls, they have it here. If jewelry making is the craft of choice for special someone, E-Z Beads is where all the locals shop for tools and supplies. A gift certificate for one of their classes would be a great gift here as well.

Almost everyone has little ones on their gift-giving lists, but are you tired of giving unimaginative, heavily marketed, plastic toys from a big-box store? Book Fair is literally crammed with award-winning toys, challenging games and puzzles — and yes, books — that make even the elves in Santa’s workshop envious.

🛍️ PAPER PICKINS

Not all holiday shopping is about gifts. Don’t forget that you probably need a few items for the celebration aspect of it all. Be sure to stop at Paper Pickins, for fine stationary such as invitations and thank you notes and the Wine and Beer Emporium for supplies for a truly merry affair.

Across Route 202 from Olde Ridge, is Glen Eagle Square, also home to more than 25 shops and restaurants. Some names here are very familiar, such as Jos. A. Bank Clothiers, Gap, Banana Republic, Ann Taylor and American Eagle Outfitters. Some of the retailers’ names may be new to you — for example, Trail Creek Outfitters, Cameo Water Wear, Annie Prue, Mykonos and The Ski Bum — but they could have that perfect something for someone on your list.

From here, shoppers can proceed just a mile or two farther down 202 for a couple of specialty shops that could transform your home into the one that everyone wants to come home to this year. For example, you could bring out some chestnuts and prepare to roast them at a nostalgic open fireplace, complete with accessories from the Chadds Ford Fireside Shop. Or, remodel your guest room with comfortable and cozy items from either Hunt Country Furniture or Marstan’s Unpainted Furniture. (Shopping tip: keep in mind that if you have first-time apartment owners or newlyweds on your list, they would probably appreciate gifts from here, as well!)

After these stops, the next destination is the sparkling shopping district of Kennett Square. Turn around and take Route 202 north to get back to Route 1 south.

*Strings of street lights
Even stop lights
Blink a bright red and green . . .*

On your way into Kennett Square, you'll pass Spring Run Natural Foods right on Route 1, just past Longwood Gardens. If your holiday menu calls for high-quality, organic foods or quality vegetarian products, make a quick stop here and stock up on some delicious treats.

Once you've followed the directions above to State Street, find a place to park and explore a town that could double for Bedford Falls in "It's a Wonderful Life" any day. Shopping here is always a delight, but during the holiday season, the local shopkeepers take extra care to put a little of the magic back into the season. Be sure to take your time strolling along the tree-lined avenues and sampling the scents of coffee, cookies and seasonal delights. One place you shouldn't miss is actually two boutiques in one — The Mushroom Cap and The Growing Tree. The owner started The Growing Tree to showcase adorable, personalized children's gifts and consignment items. A few years later, she realized that when visitors asked her where to find Kennett Square mushrooms (Kennett Square is the mushroom capital of the world) she would have to tell them to go to the local Acme. Thus, her second shop — specializing in home-grown, gourmet mushrooms and related items — was planted and has grown fruitfully ever since.

*Hear the snow crunch

From Kennett Square, find Union Street (Route 82) and travel north to 926. Turn right onto 926 east. After driving through some of the prettiest countryside the Brandywine has to offer, you will intersect Route 202 again — also known as Wilmington Pike. At this crossroads, turn south on 202 for 1-1/2 miles to find The Shoppes at Dilworthtown Crossing — yet another location with even more stores from which to choose. For the cigar lover in your family, Old Havanna Cigar Company may have just the right gift — as well as the knowledgeable staff to assist you in your selection. A great idea would be to stop in Kabloom — a European-style flower shop right next door — and pick up several small arrangements to give to the hosts of any holiday gatherings you are attending.

Once you've found your treasures here, turn back onto Route 202 north (you will pass back across 926) and stay on it until you see the sign to split off on to High Street in West Chester. A few blocks past the campus of West Chester University, you will be in the heart of the delightful downtown shopping district, a place that has as many gifts as the North Pole, but far more pleasurable to walk around.

The shopping choices here are truly almost endless, but we have a few that you might want to make special note to be sure to visit. Adorable, timeless clothes and toys that challenge the imagination — instead of the eardrums — can be found at Play Nice Children's Boutique on Market Street. Down on High Street is the Jane Chalfant Boutique — really three specialty shops in one — where discriminating clients have purchased timeless, stylish fashions and accessories for 74 years. Around the corner on Gay Street is the Newbury Street Design interior design studio with ideas to decorate your home and over on South Church is Pages Card Shop with ideas to decorate your gifts. Finally, a little farther up on East Gay Street in the Cambridge Square Shopping Center (but worth the trip!) is J. Ryan's Designer Resale Shoppe where you can find, among other things, designer consignment party dresses for all of your seasonal engagements.

On your way out of West Chester, if your path takes you on Route 202 south, don't miss The Abbey Green Shop on your right just out of town. If you're searching for a present for a lover of all things Irish, you won't need a leprechaun to find treasure here — this darling boutique specializes in everything imaginable from the old country such as clothing, jewelry, and gifts.

Happy Holidays

Now that your trunk is full and your holiday shopping stress a memory (at least until next year), take a moment and congratulate yourself for finding gifts for everyone that will truly make their holidays merry and bright.

Hopefully, a shopping trip through the quaint boutiques of our countryside has given you back a good bit of the joy that comes from the spirit of giving. We hope our shops and boutique will be a part of your traditions for years to come.

Best wishes for a happy and healthy holiday season.

The stores mentioned above are by no means all that we have to offer. Please see our "Shops, Antiques & Auctions" category in the Sightseeing section of this guide on pages 38–41 for a complete list.

A TOUCH OF CLASS

Educationally speaking, Brandywine offers something for everyone

Every year, without fail, just as the calendar closes on summer and inches toward fall, thousands of students return to the Brandywine to further their education. Whether it be a newly-minted high school graduate entering a traditional four-year college or a retired professional enrolling in a class just to satisfy his curiosity, students of all kinds can be found here, across our countryside, studying, growing and becoming more informed citizens of the world.

Below are some snapshots of our most illustrious institutions. Like snapshots, they may capture the essence of a school, but only scratch the surface of the depth of its personality. The best way to learn about a school is to visit it for yourself. So plan a campus trip to the Brandywine soon. While you are here, you may learn much about our noted place in American history, but you will also be exploring the limitless opportunities of your future.

Albright College

Albright College, in Reading, Pennsylvania, strives to provide today's students with a flexible, top-notch education and personalized service. The main campus, founded in 1898 by Jacob Albright, sits on 100 acres in a traditional university setting. However, the new branch campuses — one at the Concordville Hotel in Concordville and one at the Eagleview Corporate Center in Exton — provide comfortable learning atmospheres in not-so-traditional settings.

Today's students want to know what will be provided to them with their tuition costs and what support they will receive, says Linda Metzler, enrollment advisor for the accelerated degree programs offered in Exton and Concordville. Albright's five accelerated degree programs meet just one night a week and offer flexibility and convenience while providing accreditation in business administration, applied psychology/organizational behavior, accounting, crime and justice or information systems.

Cabrini College

The Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart of Jesus came to the United States to assist immigrants struggling with poverty, discrimination and lack of educational opportunities. With that in mind, they founded Cabrini College as a four-year liberal arts and sciences institution in 1957. The goal of helping others remains a strong tradition here and the college started a national trend in 1989 when it became the first institution of higher learning in the nation to require community service for graduation, a common practice today.

DREXEL UNIVERSITY

EASTERN UNIVERSITY

Cabrini's Center for Graduate and Professional Studies serves the needs of the adult continuing education student and professional with graduate programs as well as accelerated undergraduate programs. Areas of study include education, instructional systems and technology and organizational leadership.

"Cabrini offers exciting opportunities with its master's degree in organizational leadership," explains Colleen Nelson, director of enrollment and recruitment for graduate and professional studies. "Leadership themes are built into all courses and are integrated across the curriculum so that students develop a comprehensive, consistent, and applicable approach to leading within their organizations. Students apply in-class learning to daily workplace issues."

Chestnut Hill College

Chestnut Hill College is a four-year, coed, Catholic liberal arts college that provides students with a holistic education in an inclusive Catholic community marked by academic excellence, shared responsibility, personal and professional growth, service and concern for the earth.

Chestnut Hill's 1,800 students can choose from more than 40 undergraduate, graduate or continuing education programs, including popular, new offerings in forensic science and computer forensics.

"Chestnut Hill College prides itself on our philosophy of a holistic approach to higher education, seeking to address social, spiritual, physical and cultural needs of students as well as academic ones," says Kathleen Spigelmyer, director of public relations. "Education should emphasize the growth of the whole person not only through a liberal arts education, but also through an exciting social life, a healthy spiritual life, and a well-rounded active life, therefore exposing students to the best college has to offer."

Cheyney University

Founded in 1837 as the Institute for Colored Youth,

Cheyney University of Pennsylvania is the oldest of the historically black colleges and universities in America. Richard Humphreys, a Quaker philanthropist, bequeathed $10,000 (only one-tenth of his massive estate) to establish a school to educate the descendents of the African race. The school moved to George Cheyney's farm, 25 miles west of Philadelphia, in 1902 and grew through many name changes until it joined the State System of Higher Education as Cheyney University of Pennsylvania in 1983.

Today, Cheyney students are members of a variety of races, cultures and nationalities representing multiple levels of achievement from a wide range of educational backgrounds. Cheyney offers baccalaureate degrees in more than 30 disciplines as well as a master's degree in education. Just a few of the school's noted alumni include journalist Ed Bradley of the CBS-TV's "60 Minutes;" Robert W. Bogle, publisher and CEO of the Philadelphia Tribune, the oldest newspaper continuously owned and operated by an African-American; and U.S. Rep. Curt Weldon, who represents the 7th Congressional District, which includes Chester and Delaware counties.

Delaware County Community College

Community colleges across the nation are increasingly attracting discerning students who desire a top-notch, affordable education and Delaware County Community College is no exception. With campuses in Marple Township, Broomall, Sharon Hill, Exton and Downingtown, DCCC serves students in both Delaware and Chester counties.

"The role of community colleges is changing," says Marianne K. Rhodes, assistant director of public relations. "We offer low costs, high-quality professional training opportunities and dual enrollment options with four-year colleges and universities.

An example of their flexible educational opportunities is their 2+2+2 program. Students can enroll in DCCC-approved applied engineering technology classes while juniors and seniors in high school (two years), move on to DCCC and earn an associate's degree in applied science degree in applied engineering technology (two years) and then go on to earn a bachelor's degree in applied engineering technology with Drexel University (two years).

Delaware County Community College's Malin Road Center

DCCC's campus on Malin Road in Broomall specializes in technical education programs, in a direct response from business and industry seeking out academic institutions that would be willing to listen to their needs and develop relevant programs of study. Many of the school's career and technical programs are articulated with four-year institutions with full credit being applied to earning a bachelor of science degree.

In the area of applied engineering technology, DCCC has gained local, state and national recognition as a "Center for Excellence" that supports industry needs for highly skilled, degreed technicians and technologists in manufacturing, electrical and mechanical disciplines. Believing that communication is the key to creating and implementing successful workforce development programs, DCCC works closely with industry leaders to develop a curriculum that teaches the knowledge and skills required in today's highly technical and specialized workforce.

Drexel University

Drexel University, ranked as one of America's Best Colleges for 2005 by U.S. News & World Report, is widely recognized as one of the top 50 private, non-profit, national doctoral/research universities in the country. Not only does Drexel offer more than 170 programs of study, it also offers the only mandatory co-op program in Pennsylvania and one of three in the United States.

Drexel's reputation as a technology-rich university is well deserved. In 1983, Drexel became the first university to require all entering students to have microcomputers. In 2000, Drexel became the first major university to operate a fully wireless campus, and in 2002, Drexel launched the first mobile Web portal service for students. Drexel eLearning, the university's online education subsidiary, serves working professionals around the world who want to complete their education without compromising quality for convenience.

Eastern University

Tucked in the landscape of the heart of suburban Philadelphia's Main Line is Eastern University in St.

Dauids, a Christian institution where the goal is to develop committed professionals who serve the poor and disenfranchised through programs such as economic development and nonprofit management.

American Baptists founded Eastern in 1952 and the university's faculty still reflects both the goal of the founders and the mission statement above. Some of their prestigious faculty includes Tony Campolo, Wilson Goode, Duffy Robbins and Ron Sider, all of whom are well known in Christian and social justice circles.

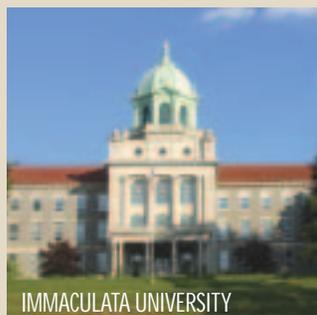

Trends in education suggest that flexibility is a key requirement for prospective students and Eastern meets the challenge by providing unique delivery formats, such as weekend residency and online distance learning, through its graduate programs. No matter what type of a class a student is in, however, Eastern strives to provide each one with practical skills and tools as well as a lifelong community of support.

JNA Institute

JNA Institute was founded in 1988 and is a leader in culinary arts education. JNA awards Associates degree in Culinary Arts/Restaurant Management as well as a diploma program in Specialized Foodservice Management. The Institute will also present hands-on cooking events

IMMACULATA UNIVERSITY

NEUMANN COLLEGE

PENNSYLVANIA INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

customized especially for your group and could be ideal as a team-building program.

Immaculata University

Immaculata University, a Catholic liberal arts institution, is well known for offering a wide variety of liberal arts majors and has strong programs in nutrition/dietetics and music therapy that are receiving recognition on their own.

Founded in 1920 and situated on 375 beautiful acres in Chester County, the school provides small classes and a value-based education that is open to people of all faiths. Students who attend receive the ability to be grounded in the field of their choice and enter the workforce with self confidence in their ability to tackle all challenges, according to Marie E. Moughan, executive director of public relations and marketing.

Some of Immaculata's famous alumnae that live up to that promise include Marie Brown Valdes-Dapena, ('41) a nationally-recognized Sudden Infant Death Syndrome authority; Theresa Shank Grentz ('74), head women's basketball coach at the University of Illinois and coach of the 1992 Women's Olympic Basketball Team; and Rene Muth Portland ('75), head women's basketball coach at Penn State University. Both Grentz and Portland played together on the first three Immaculata national championship basketball teams from 1972 through 1974.

Neumann College

Founded in 1965 by the Sisters of St. Francis of Philadelphia, Neumann College is widely known for its programs in nursing and education. Recently, several popular programs of study have been added, including arts production and performance, criminal justice and sport management. It is the intellectual home of more than 2,600 undergraduate and graduate students, some of whom participate in accelerated degree programs that can be completed in 15, 18 or 24 months.

Says Steven Bell, executive director of marketing and communications for the college: "As a Franciscan institution, Neumann College incorporates the concept of social responsibility and workplace ethics into every program. By investing their education at Neumann, students receive extraordinary personal attention, an emphasis on ethical behavior and excellent academic instruction."

Pennsylvania Institute of Technology

In 1953, Walter R. Garrison, a practicing engineer, founded the Pennsylvania Institute of Technology to meet a need for trained technicians to assist practicing engineers in performing stress analysis in the aircraft and civil/architectural fields. Currently, there are more than 300 students enrolled in various programs at PIT, the only two-year, independent college in Pennsylvania that offers associate's degrees and certificate programs in engineering technology, information technology, allied health technology and business administration. Recently, the school added new certificate programs in medical assistant, medical office specialist, and pharmacy technician. Upon completion, students are prepared to sit for the appropriate industry certification examinations.

Ann Smith, director of public affairs, says, "Among all the regionally accredited institutions of higher education in the Brandywine region, the Pennsylvania Institute of Technology stands apart as the technology college of the Delaware Valley in preparing students to enter into the workforce with the required level of technological savvy."

Pennsylvania State University Delaware County

One of the most well known universities in the nation, Penn State has a branch campus nestled on 90 acres of countryside in Middletown Township, providing a Big Ten education amid the hills of the Brandywine. This satellite campus offers 10 degree programs — including a degree in information sciences and technology — that can be completed at Delaware County. In addition, students may elect to complete the first two years of course work for over 180 degrees that can be completed at other Penn State campuses.

"Students can earn a degree from one of the most prestigious universities in the country right here in Delaware County, without transferring to University Park," explains Ron Hill, manager of communications and university relations. "Students in return receive the power of a Penn State degree and the support of the largest alumni association in the United States."

Philadelphia University

Since 1884, Philadelphia University (formerly Philadelphia College of Textiles & Science) has offered professional education in a variety of fields. Founded to raise the art and technology of the American textile industry to international standards of quality, the university has maintained its commitment to academic excellence while greatly expanding its undergraduate and graduate programs. The school's unique blending of the liberal arts and sciences with professional studies prepares graduates for successful careers in areas that include architecture, business, design, fashion, health, science, engineering and textiles.

At Philadelphia University, students gain professional skills combined with a broad general education that enables them to thrive in diverse and changing contexts and to maintain a global perspective. While outstanding teaching is central to its mission, the university also encourages research and professional practice as a basis for faculty and student development and as a service to industry and society.

Star Technical Institute

Not all roads to education pass through a traditional, four-year college and Star Technical Institute offers a highly specialized alternative. With branches in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, Star Technical Institute is a private, post-secondary trade school that is accredited by the Accrediting Commission of Career Schools and Colleges of Technology and offers programs in the fields of computers, medical technology and administration and business.

All of Star's programs feature individualized and classroom instruction with emphasis placed on relating the information learned in class with current practices in the work environment. The curriculum is designed to prepare students to be immediately employable upon graduation into an entry-level position. Flexible scheduling and practical training make Star a popular choice for returning adult students looking to advance in their chosen career, make a career change, or return to the workplace retooled for the new millennium.

Strayer University

Strayer University provides flexible, convenient educational opportunities specifically designed for busy adults who need to be able to attend a school on their terms. Students may complete a traditional undergraduate or graduate degree or quickly gain marketable skills and specialized knowledge through several certificate programs.

Strayer has 34 campuses throughout the country, including one on Sproul Road in Springfield, Pennsylvania. However many people choose to combine campus classes with the many offered online. In fact, it is possible to apply, attend classes, take exams and complete an entire degree online without ever visiting a campus. Real-time online courses are available as well as classes that can be scheduled at your convenience when true flexibility is needed.

Swarthmore College

Swarthmore College in Swarthmore, Pennsylvania, is highly regarded as one of the finest liberal arts institutions in the nation. Founded by the Religious Society of Friends (Quakers) in 1864, and coed from the start, Swarthmore's alumni list includes many notable names, including Pulitzer Prize-winning author James Michener ('29), former Massachusetts governor and presidential nominee Michael Dukakis ('55) and Peter Schickele ('57), composer and creator of "P.D.Q. Bach."

In addition to rigorous academic study, the college's 1,500 students maintain strong commitments to community service, reflecting the Quaker values of its heritage. The breathtaking campus is an achievement in excellence itself with 330 wooded acres maintained by staff horticulturists and nationally registered as the Scott Arboretum.

delphia, is truly a place where students grow. The roots of this satellite campus date back to its founding as the Pennsylvania School of Horticulture for Women in 1910 — and they still provide perennial beauty on a campus officially designated as a landscape arboretum.

The Center for Sustainable Communities serves as a regional resource that facilitates the development of collaborative solutions in land-use planning and management, environmental protection, ecological restoration and community revitalization. In addition, the Department of Community and Regional Planning offers programs where students learn to confront planning issues such as open space preservation and water resource management.

Temple University School of Tourism and Hospitality Management

Temple's School of Tourism & Hospitality Management offers innovative undergraduate, graduate and doctorate degree programs in sports and recreation management, and tourism and hospitality management. The research center provides reliable and timely data for the world's largest industry.

University of Phoenix – Philadelphia

In 1976, Dr. John Sperling, a Cambridge-educated economist and professor, saw a growing need for institutions that were designed around the life situations of the working adult population. His ideas gave birth to the University of Phoenix and its subsequent expansion to 170 campuses and learning centers in 34 states, Puerto Rico and Canada. The Brandywine Valley is home to four sites — the main campus in Wayne as well as sites in Lower Bucks County, Center City and near Philadelphia International Airport.

Programs include undergraduate degrees in business, criminal justice administration and information technology and graduate degrees in business and organizational management.

All faculty members are required to be employed full time in their area of instruction.

“University of Phoenix's success is due in large part to its commitment to the growing number of working adult students who are seeking an accessible, rigorous and practical education that will help them advance their career opportunities, while taking into account the demands of an existing job and family” says Elden Monday, campus director.

GPACU Connects Colleges, Employers and Professionals

WWW.PHILLYCOLLEGES.COM

The Greater Philadelphia Alliance of Colleges and Universities (GPACU) exists to allow regionally accredited colleges and universities to share the task of recruiting adult students through non-competitive educational displays and fairs. It also maintains a Web site, www.phillycolleges.com, which includes information on the schools and their undergraduate and graduate programs specifically designed for working professionals.

Through the Web site, adults can easily identify educational offerings and — just as importantly — employers can quickly gain access to experts in higher education in the Brandywine region. Any of the member schools can arrange an on-site educational fair for interested corporations in order for them to attract, retain and develop their employees. Since the GPACU's inception in 2005, more than 20 of the area's finest and largest companies as well as government agencies have hosted alliance events.

The growing list of GPACU colleges and universities includes Albright College, Cabrini

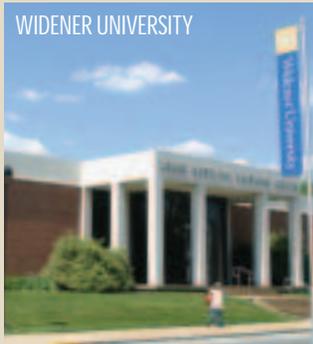

College, Chestnut Hill College, DeVry University, Drexel University, Eastern University, Gwynedd Mercy College, Holy Family University, Immaculata University, LaSalle University, Manor College, Montgomery County Community College, Peirce College, Penn State University, Pennsylvania Institute of Technology, Philadelphia University, Rosemont College, St. Joseph's University, Strayer University, Thomas Jefferson University, Temple University, University of Phoenix, Villanova University and Widener University.

many sports fans are familiar with Villanova's name from NCAA Division I basketball, it is not the only area in which the school scores big. For 15 consecutive years, U.S. News and World Report has graded Villanova extremely well, ranking Villanova the No. 1 master's-level institution in the North, No. 6 in "values" and No. 9 for the College of Engineering. In addition, its nursing school is one of only three in the nation to be named a Center of Excellence in Nursing Education by the National League for Nursing.

Inside classrooms, technology is the rule. Currently, Villanova offers many online classes, both for students on campus and those enrolled in distance learning. The technical capabilities the school makes available to its students and faculty earned a No. 8 spot from The Princeton Review on its "Top 25 Most Connected Campuses." Outside the classroom, students and visitors are able to enjoy 254 scenic acres, complete with a peaceful arboretum, magnificent chapel and award-winning theater.

Villanova University School of Law

Villanova's law school, established in 1953, draws upon the Catholic traditions emphasizing the unique value of individual human lives and the endowment of free will as well as Saint Augustine's tradition of academic freedom emphasizing critical, searching inquiry and open debate. In recognition of its excellence, Villanova was the first church-related school in the country to be awarded a chapter of the Order of the Coif, the national honor society devoted to high legal standards of scholarship.

The Villanova University School of Law currently offers the following degree programs: J.D.; J.D./M.B.A. with Villanova University College of Commerce and Finance; J.D./Ph.D. in law and psychology; and LL.M. in taxation. It is accredited by the American Bar Association and is a member of the Association of American Law Schools.

West Chester University

West Chester University, the second-largest of the 14 institutions of higher learning that compose the Pennsylvania State System of Higher Education, is a public, regional, comprehensive institution committed to providing high-quality educational opportunities and cultural resources for its students, alumni, and citizens of southeastern Pennsylvania.

Named for the picturesque Pennsylvania town in which it is located, West Chester has a heritage dating to 1812 and a long history of accolades from its inception as a preparatory school to its transformation into a highly recognized teachers college to the respected university it is today. In recognition of the historic merit of the campus, in 1981 the West Chester State College Quadrangle Historic District was placed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Widener University

Widener University, an independent, doctoral/research-intensive institution chartered in both Pennsylvania and Delaware, is a four-campus university offering more than 100 programs of study at sites in Chester, Exton, Harrisburg and Wilmington. No matter which campus a student attends, they are expected to participate in hands-on, civic-minded experiences as part of their education on a regular basis.

"Widener recently adopted a new mission focusing on service learning and civic engagement," says Chris Clark, Widener's director of public relations. "Faculty incorporates projects that benefit both the community and the students' education, into their curricula. The entire Widener University community has become proactive in outreach programs."

In addition to the Chester campus, Widener recently unveiled a new Academy for Learning in Retirement in Exton with the goal of providing baby boomers with the same opportunities for growth and intellectual development that are provided to students enrolled at the main location in Chester.

Widener University School of Law

Many students who enroll at Widener University's School of Law do so to receive an education in a close-knit setting where professors and administrators know them personally and are always accessible, according to Mary Allen, the school's public relations officer.

In addition to the regular courses of study, the school offers special certificates from its Health Law Institute (regularly ranked in the top 10 nationally), the Corporate Law Institute and the Trial Advocacy Institute.

"Being one of the many quality programs in the Brandywine region means students who attend Widener are situated in a culture of great scholarship and intellect," Allen says. "Students also get real-life, hands-on experience working on court cases in the Brandywine Valley and beyond through campus legal clinics that specialize in environmental law, criminal defense and civil law including bankruptcy, family law and legal assistance on veteran benefits cases."

THE PENNSYLVANIA VETERANS MUSEUM

Media's newest attraction — THE PENNSYLVANIA VETERANS MUSEUM — is scheduled to open in the late fall of 2005. Located in the former armory on State Street, this new museum will utilize the latest technology and educational tools to bring history to life as accurately as possible for thousands of students and visitors.

Until now, there was no official recognition for the more than 1.2 million military veterans living in Pennsylvania — a number approximately equivalent to 10% of the state's population. The Pennsylvania Veterans Museum will not only recognize and honor all those who have made freedom and liberty possible, but will also present realistic lessons on warfare and a living history of soldiers' experiences so that future generations may learn from their stories. Exhibits will depict warfare in all its reality through dramatic life-and-death-like presentations, interactive kiosks and games, special audio and lighting effects, rare archival footage, and an eye-popping-ear-shattering SenseSurround Theater that will immerse visitors in action.

To strengthen the education component of the museum, personal artifacts and recorded stories of those who served, depicting the smallest details and deepest feelings of their experiences, will be on display. The critically acclaimed Media Theatre will offer an added perspective on the times and battles presented with live presentations.

For more information on the museum, visit www.paveteransmuseum.org or call 610-566-0788. While online, visitors can also join the veterans' forum to sound off on important issues or add stories and mementos to the museum's database.

RAMBLE DOWN THE DELAWARE RIVER ON SEPTEMBER 24

Both residents and visitors to Delaware County look forward to the sensational Riverfront Ramble water festival, which caps off each summer season with a day of endless fun, including car shows, craft shows, boating, concerts and fireworks.

Thousands of kids and kids at heart will come to play along Delaware County's 14-mile waterfront on Saturday, Sept. 24. Starting at 9 a.m., this exciting Delaware River festival features a myriad of entertainment, sporting and craft events for all ages — with plenty of eating, painting, laughing, singing, racing, hiking, biking, bird watching, classic car-oogling, dancing, touring, flying and play-acting.

Topped off with a three-hour concert and dazzling fireworks show at 8:30 p.m., this event is a huge hit with couples, families, singles and groups of all ages.

We hope to see you on September 24 — and why not spend the weekend in Brandywine Country? Choose any of the fine hotels or bed and breakfasts listed in this publication or call (610) 565-3679 for assistance.

TASTE & TOUR OF THE COUNTRYSIDE

In the heart of Philadelphia's countryside lies Brandywine, an oasis of renowned restaurants, hotels and conference facilities, wineries, breweries and caterers. On October 18, 2005 at Drexelbrook Corporate Events Center, some of the finest facilities in the region will display all they have to offer. Additionally this "taste" will include a showcase of the wonderful attractions that call Brandywine home. The show is aimed at corporate and special event planners and this year out of region planners are also being targeted. A special dessert/coffee pavilion will be part of the show as well as a VIP/press lounge. A chef's competition is also planned as part of the festivities. Live entertainment will round out this exciting event which traditionally draws thousands.

For more information, please call the Brandywine Conference & Visitors Bureau at 800-343-3983.

SIGHTSEEING

Experience the history, the beauty and the fun of the Brandywine. Our historic region is one with an assortment of traditions. History comes alive during these incredible fall and winter seasons through re-enactments at the Brandywine Battlefield Park and the Colonial Pennsylvania Plantation. Experience the holiday in Chadds Ford where you are immersed with yuletide lights as you tour several historic houses in the area and take part in Colonial festivities. The young and the young at heart will enjoy a Brandywine Christmas as the Brandywine River Museum celebrates with fabulous holiday displays including an extensive O-gauge model railroad and thousands of natural decorations. The opportunities for memorable experiences are endless in Delaware County's Brandywine Country.
